

The local batch is measured

This contract follows the contact route audit. One measurement reads the local database and stores the clock and the process working set. Hosted acceptance is not claimed. The 15-minute factory target is not claimed. A rung of 100, 1,000, or 10,000 is not a stored census. Bliss hosted acceptance and Economics Phase 9 stay on their own paths.

No invoice is on file. Cost stays unrecorded. Economics remains the only price authority. Green does not send. Delivery remains NOT_SENT.

What was proved

Reading	Result
local-batch-1	4 stored prospects. Elapsed 35 milliseconds. Working set 312,238,080 bytes. Retries 0. Partial failures 0. Leakage no. Delivery NOT_SENT.
Same key again	The measurement is already recorded. The clock was not read again. The row stays 35 milliseconds.
local-batch-retry-1	4 stored prospects. Elapsed 6 milliseconds. Working set 316,678,144 bytes. Retries 1. Recovered: the other prospects remain. Leakage no. Delivery NOT_SENT.
Working set	One process reading. It is not a hosted capacity claim.
Cost	No invoice is on file. Cost stays unrecorded. None was invented.
Claims	Hosted acceptance claimed: no. Factory target claimed: no. Census claimed: no.

The operations page is `/operations#/measure`. The contract is `docs/architecture/contracts/LOCAL-BATCH-CONTRACT.md`. The four stored prospects are fixtures. They are not a claim about real businesses.

Verification

```
dotnet test Bliss.Tests/Bliss.Tests.csproj --verbosity minimal
```

390 passed, 0 failed, 0 skipped. The new proofs are `BatchMeasurementTests` and `BatchMeasurementApiTests`.

The browser recording shows the 35-millisecond row, the refusal to measure that key again, and the retry at 6 milliseconds. Nothing was sent.

What this does not authorize

- Hosted Bliss acceptance.

- The 15-minute factory target.
- Treating 100, 1,000, or 10,000 in-memory checks as stored prospects.
- An invented dollar amount or an invoice that is not on file.
- A live send or a new subscription.
- Economics Phase 9 owner acceptance.

The next priorities stay closed until each one has its own contract.